On behalf of the undersigned July 2, 2021 To: Executive vice-president, Margrethe Vestager Vice-President, Věra Jourová Commissioner for Justice, Didier Reynders Commissioner for Internal Market, Thierry Breton Commissioner for Financial services, financial stability and Capital Markets Union, Maire□ad McGuinness Joint letter on the European Commission's upcoming initiative on sustain□able corporate governance First and foremost, the co-signatories of this letter support the European Com□mission in its ambition to fight climate change and agree that companies play a vi□tal role in the transition towards a green and sustainable economy. Most Nordic companies have already incorporated or are incorporating sustainability in their strategy. However, the upcoming initiative on sustainable corporate governance touches upon two very different subjects; due diligence and corporate governance, which in our opinion should be handled separately. Linking them under the joint heading "sustainable corporate governance" is inappropriate as the two subjects have very different consequences including regulatory, economic, practical and competition implications. The upcoming initiative on corporate governance is based on the er□roneous assumption that European companies focus on the shareholders' short□term economic interests only. This assumption is not thoroughly documented. The upcoming initiative is presented as a proposal pursuing a sustainable agenda.

Nel 1970, al culmine di una fase di conquiste contrattuali importanti, fu approvato lo statuto dei diritti dei lavoratori. Una legge che era una svolta. Alcuni, forse troppi, anche a sinistra lo capirono in ritardo. In anni più recenti, con il dispiegarsi della globalizzazione, è iniziato un attacco allo statuto che ha portato allo smantellamento di sue parti fondamentali come la regola che prevedeva il reintegro senza giusta causa. contro i licenziamenti immotivati. Questo attacco, portato in nome dell'ideologia dominante che cantava le lodi della soppressione di tutte le regole sul lavoro, ha purtroppo fatto proseliti anche a sinistra. E dobbiamo al Governo Renzi un attacco tra i più gravi allo statuto dei lavoratori. È ovvio che a destra hanno approfittato di questo varco e hanno fatto di tutto per andare oltre.

Browser use is also being funneled into using "Snooping" browsers such as "Google Chrome" and "Microsoft Edge". Right now users are warned they have an unsecure browser if they are not using either Chrome or Edge. It is a scare tactic to make people switch. Why do they want folks to switch? The best answer I can come up with is that these two browsers are scripted to call home and report where and what the user is doing on their browser. Anyone using these browsers can attest that their spam mail and pop up ads has increased after switching to either one of these browsers. What about Firefox? The jury is still out about Firefox. Apparently it is not being flagged at the moment as an unsafe browser by MS nor Google. So who knows if they are onboard with the big snoop conspiracy? There are still a lot of websites that don't flag SeaMonkey either, however, some sites do warn about using SeaMonkey since it has popup protection and erases all traces of where one has been once the browser is closed.
